P R E F A C E.

THE Editors have been long solicited to publish something in the nature of a Provincial Thesaurus, confined to the Diocese of Exeter ---- A Work which (by reason of the bulk and expence of Mr. Ecton's Book under that title, the quantity of matter it contains, which may not improperly with respect to this Diocese be called extraneous, to which we may now also add the scarcity and difficulty in procuring that voluminous publication) it was thought might be well received by the Clergy of Devonshire and Cornwall. In obedience to the request of so many respectable friends, which they cannot but consider as a command, they have for some time been collecting and preparing the materials necessary for such a work; and by the kind assistance of several of the Clergy, and other Gentlemen of distinguished rank in the two Counties, have been enabled to give it to the Public in a form, which they hope will answer both the views and expectations of the purchaser.

Many of the articles in Mr. Ecton's Book, which seemed not to be of general and immediate use,---such as the foundations and first possessors of the several dignities; the claims and patronages of abbies, priories, and monasteries, long since extinguished and consigned to oblivion; occasional presentations by lapse, temporary purchase, or otherwise; with other similar matters of that indifferent nature,---they have taken the liberty to omit, as tending rather to swell the volume unnecessarily than to inform: Gentlemen who are curious in those researches easily may, and will probably chuse to, have recourse to Mr. Ecton's Book, to the several Authors to whom he refers---such as Dugdale, Le Neve, &c.----and to the several Offices of Record. Whatever may be of use to the Clergy of the Diocese in general, they have faithfully preserved; and have endeavoured to render the Survey as complete as possible, by the addition of some few articles, of which Mr. Ecton could not possibly take notice, but which may however in a local view be of some service to the purchaser.

In a word, both in the publication itself, and in the several articles of its contents, they have endeavoured to supply whatever was thought a Desideratum; and if they have not succeeded, they have only to request, that the attempt may be at least received with candor and indulgence, and that such of the Clergy and others, who may have it in their power, will kindly favour them from time to time with such information, as may render any future Edition of this Survey more correct, perfect, and complete.

EXETER, April 15, 1782.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE Editors are sorry they have it not in their power to give a more perfect List of the Augmentations to small Livings in this Diocese, than what they have copied from Mr. Ecton's Book, their application to the office for that purpose not having been attended with success.

They will therefore be extremely obliged to the Clergy, for their assistance in this respect, as well as in correcting the mistakes and imperfections, with regard to the Patronage and reputed Values, or other matters which, without such assistance, could not possibly come to their knowledge.

The Editors purpose to publish an additional sheet at Easter, 1783; in which they will give such alterations and corrections as shall have occurred and come to hand, and therefore wish the purchasers of this work to defer binding it till that time.

A SURVEY

DIÖCESE OF EXETER, &c.

THE Diocese of Exeter extends itself with a very few exceptions, which will be noted as they occur, throughout the Counties of Devon and Cornwall, the bounds of which it no-where exceeds. The See, which is composed of those of Devon, formerly held at Tawton near Barnstaple, and afterwards at Crediton or Kyrton in that County, and of Cornwall, formerly held at Bodmyn, and afterwards at St. Germain's in Cornwall, was consolidated by Canute, and finally removed to Exeter by Edward the Confessor, about the year of our Lord 1049; and Leofric was constituted and with great pomp and solemnity inaugurated the first Bishop.

It is divided into four subordinate Jurisdictions or Archdeaconries, Exeter, Cornwall, Totnes or Totton, Barnstaple or Barum.

The Archdeaconries are again subdivided into Deaneries :

The Archdeaconry of EXETER contains the Deaneries of Aylesbeare, Cadbury, Christianity or Exeter, Dunkefwell, Dunsford, Honiton, Kenne, Plymtree, and Tiverton.

In the Archdeaconry of TOTNES or TOTTON are the Deaneries of Holfworthy, Ipplepen, Moreton, Okehampton, Tamerton, Tavistock, Totton or Totnes, and Woodleigh.

The Archdeaconry of BARNSTAPLE contains the Deaneries of Barum or Barnstaple, Chumleigh, Hertland, Shirwell, Southmolton and Torrington.

These three Archdeaconries are within the County of DEVON.

The whole County of CORNWALL (with exception to the Jurisdiction of the Deanery of St. Burien) constitutes the fourth Archdeaconry, and contains the Deaneries of East, Kerier, Penwithe, Poudre, Pydar, Trigge Major, Trigge Minor, and West.

The Deanery of St. BURIEN is situated at the South-West extremity of the County of Cornwall; is an Exempt and Royal Jurisdiction, acknowledging no other Visitor but the King, and includes the three parishes of St. Burien, St. Levan, and Sennan; and the Dean thereof hath the sole Jurisdiction in all Ecclesiastical matters, and from his Decrees and Sentences an appeal lies to the King in Council.

The SCILLY ISLANDS, which lie at some distance West from the Land's End in Cornwall, affect to deny the Jurisdiction of the See of Exeter, as well as that of the Archdeacon of Cornwall; but they have submitted in many instances to both :—the present Rector of St. Mary's, the principal Island, has accepted a deputation as Surrogate from the Vicar General; and in short their distance seems to be the principal if not the only support of their claim.

To

To this may be added the Peculiars under the jurisdiction of the Dean and Chapter, solely and without any concurrence to prove Wills, &c. as was settled and agreed upon by a formal Composition made between the Bishop, Dean and Chapter, and Archdeacons of the Diocese of Exeter, in the Year of our Lord 1616. In this the Peculiars are specified, and the exercise of Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction is confined for ever to the limits of each; the only difference is, that the Archdeacons do not hear and determine Causes, (tho' they prove Wills, and grant Letters of Administration,) without the concurrent power of the Bishop.

The very antient and very useful office of Dean Rural is preserved in this Diocese: The Business of this Officer is to visit the Churches, Chapels, Parsonage and Vicarage Houses, within his Deanery; to see whether the Edifices be kept in due and decent repair, and the Churches and Chapels provided with proper furniture, utensils and ornaments, and to report to the Vicar General, or, within the Archdeaconry of Cornwall, to the Archdeacon by Composition; ---but the Archdeacon is finally to report to the Vicar-General. For this purpose the Clergy of each Deanery, at their annual visitations, elect one of their body (generally by rotation), who takes an oath before the Vicar-General, or one of his Surrogates, for the due execution of his office. The advantages resulting from this office are exemplified by constant experience: The Houses of the Clergy are, in general, kept in very good order, and Briefs for the rebuilding or repair of Churches, so frequent in other parts of the Kingdom, are here almost without an example.

The present LORD BISHOP of the Diocese is Dr. JOHN ROSS.---His Lordship was elected Jan. 12, 1778, on the Death of Dr. KEPPEL.

The

The Cathedral Church is dedicated to St. Peter. Its antient constitution was with a Dean and twenty Prebendaries---the Dean always included in that number.— For some centuries past, eight of these Prebendaries have been called to residence, from whence they take the name of Canons Residentiary.--- Vacancies are fill'd up by election by the Chapter.--- These eight, with the Dean, constitute the Chapter, and have the government of the Cathedral Church and its appendages and peculiars. They have also the disposal of the several benefices in the gift of the Church, the nominations to which they divide by lots called balls. On any revolution in the Chapter (by the death or removal of a member, and again on the admission of a new member into full right) there is a sortition of these balls; and on any benefice becoming vacant in the Church list, the Canon in whose ball it happens to be, names his clerk, and on his nomination the Chapter present. The new member has no right in these balls for the first or dead year; which being completed, he enters into full-right, and shares every thing with his brethren; the ordinary jurisdiction is in the Dean.

The Deanry, Precentorship, Chancellorship, and Treasurership, are called the four greater internal dignities: The possessors of those offices are generally but not necessarily (except with respect to the Dean) members of the Chapter.

The four Arch-Deaconries, and Sub-Deanry, are also called internal dignities.

The great Chapter, which is composed of the whole body, viz. the Dean and twenty-three Prebendaries, is never called together but for the election of a Bishop, Dean, or Convocation-Clerk.

The Members of the Church, besides those already mentioned, are a Sub-Chantor, Sub-Treasurer, four Priest-Vicars, an Organist (who is usually also one of the Lay-Vicars), eight Lay-Vicars, six Secondaries, and ten Choristers. The Chantor and Treasurer name their respective Deputies; the Dean also appoints a Deputy with the style of Dean's-Vicar, who under him is Curate or Parish-Priest of the Close, performs all surplice duties, and receives the emoluments thereof. The Choristers are appointed by the Precentor (or Chantor as he is usually styled), the Secondaries by the Dean, and the Priests and Lay-Vicars elected by the Chapter.

The Officers of the Church are an Informator Puerorum, (instructor of the Choristers,) chosen by the Chapter; two Virgers, a Bell-Ringer, and an Organ-blower, appointed by the Treasurer; and an inferior officer, commonly called the Dog-whipper, appointed by the Chapter.

The several offices of Sub-Chantor, Organist, and Informator Puerorum, are often, but not always, or necessarily, held by the same person.

There are also two other officers of the church called Lecturers, one of which is chosen by the Chapter; the other nominated and paid by the Chancellor: Their business is to preach, or read a lecture at early prayers every Tuesday and Friday; or if a holiday happen to fall within their respective days of duty, at the usual time of divine service in the forenoon. The days of duty for the Chapter Lecturer are Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday; those of the Chancellor's, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. If a great holiday on which the Dignitaries preach, happen to fall within the week, the Lecturer, whose turn it would otherwise be, is for that time excused: They are also excused during the Easter and Whitsun weeks, and the twelve days after Christmas.

The

The Dean, exclusive of his turn as a member of the Chapter, preaches on the three great Festivals, viz. Christmas, Easter, and Whitsunday, in the forenoon; the internal Dignitaries and members of the Chapter preach by rotation on the other Sundays, Ash-Wednesday, Good-Friday, and the State holidays in the forenoon; the Prebendaries in their turns in the afternoon on Sundays only.

The present Members of the Church.
